ports; sluggishness in demand for readymade garments and agricultural items like rice; procedural problems on account of withdrawal of excise exemptions for SBI units; and overall high rate of inflation of over 10 % causing an appreciation of the real exchange rate of rupee, thereby adversely affecting export performance. Exports exhibit seasonality and this too has contributed to the modest rate of growth.

(c) Export promotion is a continuous process and steps are taken to boost exports in consultation with trade, industry and export promotion organisations. The cooperation of the States is being sought increasingly and the Government has formulated a new scheme called Export Promotion Industrial Parks (EPIP) Scheme for this purpose.

Tariff cut on industrial trade under GATT

37. MISS SAROJ KHAPARDE: Will the Minister of COMMERCE be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that among all the member countries of GATT, India has offered the higest tariff cut of 15 per cent on covered industrial trade under the new World Trade Treaty signed at Marrakesh on April 15, 1994; and

(b) if so, the details thereof and the reasons for offering this high tariff cut?

THE MINISTER OF COMMERCE (SHRI PRANAB MUKHERJEE): (a) and (b) India has bound its tariffs on industrial raw materials, intermediates and capital goods at the level of 25 per cent and 40 per cent. This is to be achieved in six equated annual instalments beginning 1995. The base tariffs for reductions are the tariffs as on 1.1.90. Since then our tariffs have been lowered substantially. Hence we may not be required to undertake any significant tariff reductions during initial years of the implementation of the Uruguay Round results.

The target agreed to at the mid-term review in Montreal was to cut tariffs by one-third (a 33 per cent reduction). Generally speaking, both developed and developing countries have offered tariff bindings exceeding this target. Accoding to a GATT Secretariat analysis, our tariff offers on industrial goods entail a weighted average reduction of about 55 per cent.

The figures of 15 per cent has been cited in a press release based upon a US Treasury Department study. The basis of this assessment has not been made clear in the release.
